THE POPULATION IN 1890. As the time for taking the decennial census approaches varied estimates are being made in relation to the probable population which the enumeration will show.

It is difficult to say with any degree of certainty, but the most successful estimates of population, and those which have proved nearest correct, have been made by Mr. E. B. Elliott, actuary of the treasury department. For example Mr. Elliott's estimate of the population In 1879 was 48,866,000, and the actual enumeration in 1880 showed it to be 50,155,788. If we remember rightly the estimate made by Mr. Elliott for 1880 was 50,000,000. When the accuracy of these forcasts is taken into consideration it is interesting to reproduce this successful statistician's computations for the years 1881 to 1890, Inclusive:

Mr. Porter, editer of the the New York Press, lately appointed census commissioner, says that it is probable that the eleventh census will show a population in this country not far short of 65,000,000 an increase of nearly 15,000,000 since 1880. The growth has been largely in the western and southwestern states and in the population of our large cities. Since the war broke out the population of the United States has more than doubled. The most cheering thing in connection with this tremendous growth of population is the fact that to a large extent manufacturers, agriculture and mining and the general development of the resources of the country have kept abreast of the population.

So long as this is true we have nothing to fear from these decennial increments. Our domain is vast enough at present to take care of the population no matter how rapidly it grows. The only trouble lies in the congested districts of our great cities-in districts where emigrants from abroad, too poor to seek their fortunes in the broad fields of the west, are obliged to crowd in tenement houses and compete with one another for such unskilled labor as the cities afford, The west still wants population of the right kind.

Sound, vigorous, strong men and women are still needed and will be needed in the western states during this generation, and perhaps beyond

HAMPTON'S HARANGEE. CHARLESTON, S. C., May 15 -At the dedication of a monument to the dead soldiers of four German com-panies in the Confederate army today Senator Hampton made the following address: "We regard our martyrs, and God forbid that any of their living comrades, their descendants to the remotest ages should brand them as traitors.

Words, my friends, are not merely empty sounds in the domain of history. They are things, potent but in placing these events in a true light before the world, and we should never acknowledge that we were rebels or traitors. That ques-tion is to be decided by the verdict of impartial history and that of posterity, and we may as well be satisfied to commit our cause and our conduct to those august tribunals. Let me not be misunderstood as discussing the merits of the great conflict which arrayed one section of country against the other, which wrought such widespread destruction and which cost so much in treasure and in the loss of so many precious lives. The questions which rought about that unhappy war have been settled, and he is not a true patriot who would strive to kindle the fires of sectional hate or reopen the wounds which the kind hand of time has bealed. No higher duty can inspire the heart of every patriot than that which impels him to devote all his energies of mind and body to make his country worthy of the admiration and respect of the world; the fit home for all time to come of American free men. This duty devolves on us of the south as urgently as upon any other citizens of this broad land, for whatever may have been the issues which brought about civil war we must remember that now-north, south, east and west-have but one country and but one constitution. to both of which our allegiance is due. But while we of the south recognize this fact fully it does not follow that we should refuse to do honor to our dead comrades. The men who met us in battle would have a just contempt for us were we enough to forget those who gave their lives for a cause, which they and we believe in our immost hearts to be just and right. We should indeed be time-serving cravens if we allowed the memory of these men, of their untimely death to pass forever from our hearts, or if we should fail to leave enduring monuments to them as evidences of our love and our grati-We can do nothing to show a grateful people's gratitude to our surviving veterans.

FELL IS LOVE WITH PRINCESS PO

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 16.— About a year ago President Cleve-land transferred Jacob L. Doty from the consulate at Bermuda to that of Tahita, Society Island. Mr. Doty has fallen in love with the charming and beautiful Princess Polona, of Tahita. His love has been reciprocated, and the formal betrothal has taken place.

has taken place.

The princess is about 18 years of age and a perfect blonde. She is the daughter of Lord and Lady Darcy, her mother being a native Tahitan princess and her father an English hobleman of distinguished ancestry. She has had all the advantages of education in France, Germany and England. She is the possessor of immense wealth in her own essor of immense wealth in her own right and receives a large annuity from France under treaty stipula-

As may naturally be supposed, the princess has not lacked suiters for her hand, all of whom, including the earl of Dudley, she has persistently refused. Lord Darcy was himself auxious to have his daughter married to a scion of the English peerage, but gracefully yielded to the wishes of his child.

Consul Doty has worked his own

Consul Doty has worked his own way to position and fame. As a boy he was a page in the United States Senate. He comes from a good fam Senate. He comes from a good family. His father, now deceased, was a prominent citizen of Brooklyn. Mrs. Boty was the grand-daughter of Lord Melbourne, and her English progenitors were the relatives of Charles Lamb, the McPhersons, Wallaces and other families of note in Great Britain.

FUNERAL ADDRESSES. A writer in the Chicago Interior

thus vigorously protests against the custom of funeral addresses: "The habit of preaching about the character of the dead is reprehensible. It tends to flattery and sycophantey and untruthfulness (unintentional), because the whole truth cannot be told. It causes the carless bearer to remain satisfied with himhearer to remain satisfied with himself. 'The preacher will make it all right, anyhow, when I die.' 'Where do they bury the bad people?' asked a little girl of her mother, after a waik in the graveyard and the perusal of the epitaphs. Simple child! if she had attended all the funerals she would have known that bad people do not die. A great deal is said ple do not die. A great deal is said about burial reform in these days.

Let it begin with the funeral ad-

"Untold Agony from Catarrh.", Prof. W. HAUSNER, the famous measurerist, of Histor, N. F., writes: "Soine ten years ago I suffered unlold agony from chronic massicaturel. My family physician gave me up as neurable, and said I must die. My case was such a bad one, that every day, towards sunsch a bad one, that every day, towards sunsch, my voice would become so hourse I could hardly speak above a whisper. In the myrning my coughing and clearing of my throat would almost strangle me. By the use of Dr. Sage's Cutarrh Hensedy, in three months, I was a well man, and the cure has been permacent."

"Constantly Hawking and Spitting." Thomas J. Rushing, Esq., 28°: Pine Street. St. Louis, Mo., writes: "I was a great sufferer from entairth for three years. At times I could hardly breathe, and was constantly hawking and spitting, and for the last eight mouths could not breathe through the mostris. I thought nothing could be done for me. Luckits, I was advised to try Dr. Saar's Catarrh Remedy, and I am now a well man. I believe it to be the only sure remedy for entarth now manufactured, and one has only to give if a fair trial to experience astounding results and a permanent cure."

Three Bottles Cure Catarra ELI ROBBINS, Rungen P. O. Columbia Co., Pu., says: "My daughter had catarrh when she was five years old, very badly. I saw Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy advertised, and prouried a bottle for her, and soon saw that it helped her; a third bottle effected a permanent cure. She is now eighteen years old and sound and bearty."

FARMERS AND THRESHERMEN OF Saline County.

We desire to say that we will offer you the following first-class machines at market prices for the season.

Strong, light and durable. No experiment, but a proved success. Simple in construction; not one piece too many, but just enough to do the work equal to any machine made, and the BEST OLD MACHINE ON EARTH.

The old Buckeye is too well known to need comment. Be sure and see the NEW LIGHT BUCKEYE FOLDING BINDER before you make your selection. It is fully warranted in every part, place and particular, and sold on as reasonable time as any first-class Harvester in the market.

We are Also Agents for

THE FAMOUS EMPIRE

This is one of the oldest binders in the market, but flot as well known in Saline County as some others. We will venture the assertion that if you will come and see this MARVEL OF SIMPLICITY, that we will be able to convince you that it is the BEST. It has twenty-six pieces less than the Appleby Binder and weighs one hundred pounds less than other binders. Every part is in sight, hence easily adjusted.

The advantage of this binder over others can be seen at a glance.

We will have a CAR-LOAD OF FIRST CLASS BINDING TWINE in to sell to our friends as LOW AS THE LOWEST.

Stickle Header.

Those of you who wish to buy a header cannot do better than come and place an order for the STICKLE STEEL FRAME HEADER. At this time the LIGHTEST HEADER IN THE MARKET. We will give you as LOW PRICES and easy terms as any of our competitors.

To The Threshermen.

We desire to say that we are agents for the FAMOUS NICHOLS & SHEPHERD CO'S VIBRATOR and J. I. Case & Co's IRONSIDES AGITATOR. These machines have no equal in this market. The IRONSIDES has a CAST IRON CYLINDER FRAME, and has WROUGHT IRON WHEELS --- a feature heretofore unknown in
